Overview

The International Commercial Arbitration (ICA) research service gives you instant access to the information, resources and critical guidance found in over 100 international arbitration databases. This collection includes a new Current Awareness Center that highlights the day's significant updates.

If you have any international clients, this is a critical library for you. Answers to complex international business questions are just a click away.

Content Description

Increases in cross-border business relations have led to increasingly complex transnational commercial disputes, leading to the emergence of international commercial arbitration as a preferred means of dispute resolution among global participants. To support the Thomson Legal and Regulatory (TLR) vision of becoming the foremost worldwide provider of integrated information solutions to legal, regulatory, and business professionals, TLR has developed a comprehensive, integrated, and up-to-date online information solution for international arbitration practitioners throughout the world.

Containing hundreds of international databases, all interlinked and fully cross-referenced, this unique service provides users with fast, easy access to the most authoritative materials available, including:

- Leading commentary from the pre-eminent Sweet & Maxwell text, Law & Practice of International Commercial Arbitration, by Redfern and Hunter
- Arbitration awards databases from ICC, GATT, WTO, ICSID, CIETAC and more
- Dozens of databases covering current and historical, international arbitration rules from 19 organizations and jurisdictions including: AAA, WIPO, IAB, ICC and UNCITRAL
- The latest news, discussion and international case summaries from the International

Arbitration Law Review

- UK and international commercial arbitration case locators and legislation locators – everything you need to know in one place
- Legal Journals Index – international commercial arbitration articles from over 800 journals, with links to the full text, including The Vindobona Journal of International Commercial Law and Arbitration
- Current Awareness – tailored summaries of the day's developments in arbitration law and practice by 9 a.m., with updates throughout the day

Plus hundreds of international databases including: Arbitration Legislation, Multi-Lateral Treaties, Arbitration Rules of Procedure, Arbitration Guides, Awards & Decisions, Journals, Law Reviews and much more.
